We all fondly remember our college days along with those endearing friendships with fellow classmates. However, President Barack Obama claims to have graduated from Columbia University, but none of the alumnae of the Class of '83 can recall his presence on campus, but they do remember meeting a Barry Soetoro.

UPDATE: The Dallas Blog attempted to post an article link from the Columbia University alumnus, but we faced sudden and unexplained technical difficulties yet again. We hope to send the article link in the near future.
