

Tory Titan: London Mayor Boris Johnson

Contributed by Tom McGregor
Fri, Aug 10, 2012, 07:28 PM

Prime Minister David Cameron of Great Britain has described London Mayor Boris Johnson as a "titan" of the Conservative Party, who has "a lot more to give the country." The BBC News reports that, speaking on ITV's Daybreak, the prime minister said he wanted the mayor to be "as ambitious as possible."

Numerous Conservative MPs and donors are hailing Mayor Johnson as a potential future leader.

According to the BBC, "Mr. Johnson has said he is committed to seeing out his second term as mayor and which ends in 2016. The mayor's already high profile has been boosted further by the success of London 2012. PM Cameron said, "I want Boris to be as ambitious as possible. He's a fantastic London Mayor." To read the entire article from the BBC News, link here: Tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com