

Thai MP Shoots and Kills His Secretary

Contributed by Tom McGregor
Mon, Aug 13, 2012, 06:43 PM

A member of the Thailand Parliament stands accused of negligent homicide for bringing a loaded machine gun to a restaurant where he accidentally shot and killed his secretary. Thai MP Boonsoong Kowawisarat faces charges. BBC News reports that, "police in Thailand say that they will charge a member of the Thai Parliament with causing death by negligence for accidentally shooting his secretary dead with a submachine gun." The incident occurred in a restaurant on Sunday evening. According to the BBC News, "Senator Boonsoong Kowawisarat took out a 9mm Uzi submachine gun while waiting for food, the Bangkok Post reported." He confessed to police that the gun accidentally discharged and his secretary was shot in the stomach. To read the entire article from the BBC News, link here: Tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com