President Barack Obama has already delivered a campaign speech blaming GOP vice president nominee U.S. Rep. Paul Ryan (R.-Wi.) for the recent drought in the Midwest. Now, Democrats are claiming that Mr. Ryan is single-handedly responsible for the Standard & Poor's credit downgrade over the federal deficit. Politico reports that, "Rep. Paul Ryan electrified Republicans with his prime-time address Wednesday evening, but he also sent a jolt through House Democrats, who flocked to town to label him a hypocritical liar." Democrats prepare to blast Ryan on Medicare, the country's credit downgrade, and claiming he supposedly "sabotaged" Obama's efforts to heal the economy. According to Politico, "there are also brand-new attacks: They plan to pain Ryan as disingenuous for criticizing the stimulus after requesting money for projects in his district. And the General Motors plant that Ryan said closed because of Obama actually started closing in 2008 before he took office." A Democrat party operative told Politico, "I have to tell you that I was yelling at the TV" during Ryan's speech. To read the entire article from Politico, link here: tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com
