

Pravda Fights Putin over Obama Endorsement

Contributed by Tom McGregor
Mon, Sep 10, 2012, 10:51 PM

Nobody can accuse Pravda, a Russian State-owned newspaper, of acting as the mouthpiece of President Vladimir Putin. In an apparent standoff, Pravda has just published an editorial, entitled, "Why Barack Obama does not deserve to be re-elected," despite Putin's stunning endorsement of Obama last week.

Pravda even printed a lengthy 4-paged Op-Ed to explain why Obama is a failure as U.S. President.

Pravda writes, "as the U.S. presidential election on November 6, 2012 is approaching, an important question to ask here is: Does Barack Obama deserve a second term (for four more years)? The answer is a resounding 'no,' for the following 11 reasons, which reveal what can be called his audacity of failure." Pravda even mocks Americans as hopelessly naïveté voters by citing a quote from Abraham Lincoln: "You may fool all the people some of the time, you can even fool some of the people all of the time, but you cannot fool all the people all of the time."

To read the entire article from Pravda, link here: Tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com