

Biden Gaffe of the Day: Middle Class "Buried"™

Contributed by Tom McGregor
Tue, Oct 2, 2012, 07:11 PM

Vice President Joe Biden, a walking mouth bomb for the Democratic Party, shocked American voters once again by disclosing that the middle class has been "buried" in the Obama White House years.

Fox News reports that, "Vice President Biden said Tuesday that the middle class has been buried the last four years" — a practically gift-wrapped gaffe that Republicans immediately grabbed to hammer President Obama on the eve of the first presidential debate.

Biden said the comment at a campaign rally in Charlotte, N.C. while attempting to attack GOP tax policies which Democrats contend would slash taxes for the wealthy and raise them for the middle class.

Fox News quotes Biden as saying that, "this is deadly earnest. How they can justify — how they can justify raising taxes on the middle class that's been buried in the last four years. How in the world's name can they justify raising their taxes with these tax cuts?"

GOP VP nominee, Paul Ryan appeared at a campaign stop in Iowa to say "we need to stop digging" and elect Romney.

To read the entire article from Fox News, link here: Tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com