

Black Actress Faces PC Blacklist for Endorsing Romney

Contributed by Tom McGregor
Tue, Oct 9, 2012, 06:25 PM

A black Hollywood actress may soon find herself blacklisted by TV & film producers for boldly declaring her support for GOP nominee Mitt Romney for President.

The Houston Chronicle reports that, “Clueless star Stacey Dash has defended her right to free speech after she was attacked on Twitter for publicly endorsing Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney.”

The 46-year-old actress disclosed that she will not be voting for Barack Obama.

According to the Houston Chronicle, “she tweeted, ‘Vote Romney. The only choice for your future. Team Romney … vote Romney,’ alongside a patriotic photo of herself posing in a red swimsuit in front of the U.S. flag.”

Her fans, many of whom support Obama, ranted against her Twitter comments.

To read the entire article from the Houston Chronicle, link here:Tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com