

US Taxpayers Fund "Flying Monkey Poop"™ Musical

Contributed by Tom McGregor
Mon, Oct 15, 2012, 06:24 PM

President Barack Obama is a big fan of United Nations climate change policies. He loves climate change propaganda and carbon trading schemes so much that he endorsed American-taxpayers funding a musical that stars "flying monkey poop."

Fox News reports that, "nearly $700,000 (taxpayers' dollars) from the National Science Foundation to a New York-based theater company so it could develop a musical about climate change and biodiversity. "The Great Immensity" opened in Kansas City this year. Along with the songs one reviewer described as sounding like "a Wikipedia entry set to music," the audience was able to experience "flying monkey poop."

To read the entire article from Fox News, link here: Tmcgregordallas@yahoo.com